Bonus payments

Astute may receive bonus payments from certain product providers on the Astute Approved Product List under pre-existing agreements. These payments are based on the level of investments or insurance placed by Astute clients in those products and may range from 10% to 30%. Astute may pay up to 67% of these payments to Apexx Wealth Pty Ltd under existing agreements. Any benefit Astute and Apexx Wealth Pty Ltd receive under this arrangement is not an additional cost to you.

In addition, Astute Financial Advisers may be invited to participate, sometimes with their partners, in domestic and international educational conferences and seminars arranged by Astute. It is not possible to estimate a dollar value of these benefits at this time. Their attendance may be paid for in full or subsidised by Astute, or it may be at their own cost.

Astute Financial Advisers may receive minor benefits including business lunches, tickets to sporting and cultural events, corporate promotional merchandise, and other minor benefits from Astute or product providers.

These benefits are discretionary in nature and relate to future events. It is therefore not possible to provide an estimated dollar value on these benefits at this point in time.

Any other benefits that Astute or Andrew may receive will only be accepted to a value of less than $300 per provider per year. If other benefits over this limit are received, they will be declined or if delivery has already been made, they will be disposed of in accordance with Astute's conflict of interest policy.
